Thomas Jefferson School of Law Named Among Top 25 Best in Country for Financial Aid Support

GraduatePrograms.com polled more than 10,000 current, former law students to rank schools that offer greatest monetary assistance

San Diego, CA – July 15, 2015 – Thomas Jefferson School of Law is among the nation's top 25 institutions for financial aid support, according to GraduatePrograms.com.

The site recently polled more than 10,000 current and former law students to determine what schools provide the best financial aid packages and smoothest application processes.

"Most students and families are nervous about paying for law school. That's why we're doing all we can to remove any financial barrier so our students can focus on getting the best education possible," said Thomas Guernsey, President and Dean of Thomas Jefferson School of Law. "We're proud to offer a variety of financial aid packages including scholarships, loans, federal work study, veteran's benefits and other forms of assistance that don't need to be repaid."

During the last school year, Thomas Jefferson School of Law awarded students $6,629,402 in scholarships, resulting in an average grant of $15,136. In addition to traditional financial aid offerings, Thomas Jefferson School of Law offers guaranteed merit scholarships for first-time entering students. Based on the student's highest LSAT score and undergraduate grade point average, the scholarships are available for full-time and part-time students.
